Spanish Market Potential a Challenge to British Exporters

In the following review of Spain's developing economy, prepared by the Commercial Department of the British Embassy at Madrid, it is pointed out that as import restrictions are lifted, so must sustained effort be made to consolidate our position in the Spanish Market.

THE POPULAR conception of Spain is often limited to sunshine, flamenco music and a pleasant holiday. But the image of Spain in 1962 is also of a country determined to develop her industries and modernize her agriculture, a country with a growing need for capital equipment for her steel mills, power stations, chemical plants, oil refineries, ports, shipyards, motor vehicle factories, and other industries. Seventy-five per cent. of all Spain's imports from abroad are no longer subject to quotas or licences, and over the last two years she has built up an impressive level of foreign exchange reserves to pay for them. In 1961 British exports to Spain were valued at over £39 million, the highest figure ever reached and £9 million more than was exported in 1960: £29 million of this total was accounted for by the sale of manufactured goods. Although the Spanish market may still be described as small, the extent to which imports have already been liberalized and the steady increase in demand which seems certain to occur over the next few years, afford real opportunities to British exporters, particularly in the field of capital goods.

Development of the Spanish economy

Spain's economy was seriously disrupted by the Civil War; industrial and agricultural production were brought virtually to a standstill and development was held up for many years. In July 1959 Spain became a full member of the O.E.E.C. and undertook an extensive overhaul of her economy, including the revaluation of the peseta, and the establishment of a unitary exchange rate, the liberalization of a long list of goods, and easing of the rules governing foreign investment in Spanish enterprises. After an initial recession these stabilization measures proved to be largely successful and Spain is now in a sounder economic position than for decades past. But the necessity of bringing industry and agriculture up to a more efficient level is generally recognized. Many of her industries are uncompetitive, and in some respects her agriculture continues to be primitive; in both sectors there is a serious lack of modern equipment, technical skills and up-to-date organization methods and the Government continually urges increased investment in plant and machinery.

An I.B.R.D. mission visited Spain last year to draw up a long-term plan of economic development; it is expected that its report will recommend expenditure on transport, roads and electric power and that some financial aid may later be provided by the World Bank for this purpose. In February Spain made formal application for association with the Common Market leading eventualy to full membership ; it is, however, generally felt that before economic integration is possible Spanish industry will have to be strengthened and modernized.

Opportunities for sales of capital goods

There is therefore likely to be an increasing demand over the next few years for capital equipment, particularly in the basic sectors of electrical power, roads and transport. Electrical production increased by 12 per cent. in 1961 in comparison with 1960, and was 43 per cent.

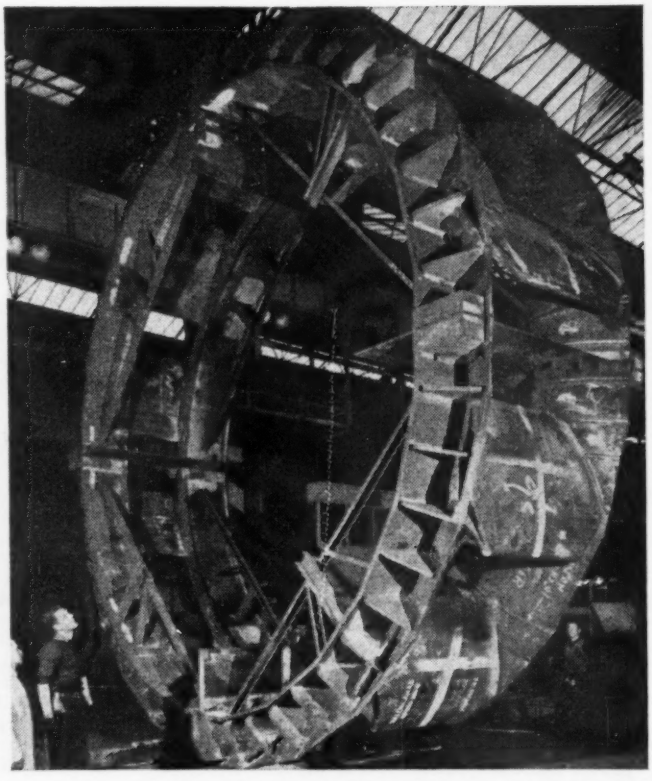
Surface quality is one of the primary considerations in the production of cold rolled steel strip. Great stress is laid on this at the Brinsworth cold rolling mill recently installed by the Steel, Peech & Tozer branch of The United Steel Companies Limited at Rotherham. Here an operator is seen examining the strip as it is being temper-rolled. Cold rolled steel strip is used for the manufacture of bicycles, electric irons, tubes, typewriters, hinges, motor car hub caps and a wide range of other articles. Although vast quantities of iron ore are mined in this country for use in the steel industry a fairly large amount is imported from many countries including Spain.



Seen here being assembled at the English Electric Company's Netherton Works, Lancashire, is the speed ring for one of three 108,000 h.p. reversible Deriaz pump/turbines for the Hidro-Electrica Espanola pumped storage scheme at Valdecanas on the River Tagus in Spain.

higher than in 1957. Spain has large hydro-electric resources and plans to exploit them to the full. There will undoubtedly be a sustained demand in the next few years for heavy electrical equipment in connection with projected conventional power stations. There are also plans for the eventual construction of nuclear power stations. Construction equipment will be needed for the building of roads, bridges and other public works including extensive housing projects. Spanish roads are in need of improvement and it is calculated that at least 50 per cent. of all main roads are in a serious state of disrepair. To remedy this situation the Government approved at the end of last year a Road Plan providing for the expenditure of 177,638 million pesetas (£1,057 million) over the next sixteen years on building new motorways, bridges and road tunnels and on improving the existing road network. Considerable development of ports and their installations is also planned.

Other industries where opportunities will occur are the cotton textile, steel and chemical industries. A plan for the modernization of the important cotton textile industry was drawn up in 1960; and it is foreseen that some 8,000 million pesetas (£48 million) will be spent in replacing machinery and rationalizing production. Some of the equipment required will probably be imported. Production of iron and steel is increasing and the main steel plants are all engaged in extension and modernization programmes. Other heavy engineering industries which are developing rapidly will provide scope for high-class machine tools and machinery. Substantial developments in petro-chemicals, refineries, pipe lines and fertilizer plants are also in prospect, some of which are about to be realized. United Kingdom manufacturers of heavy capital goods can play an important part in supplying equipment for these industries, despite the fierce competition from the United States, Germany and other countries, provided that the traditional high quality of goods is maintained, and credit terms, service and delivery dates are right.

It should be emphasized that this is a market where British firms may expect to meet longer credit terms granted by competitors than are usual elsewhere, but in such cases it may be that E.C.G.D. can be of assistance with their 'matching' facility.

Liberalization of Imports

Since July 1959 the authorities have been pursuing a more liberal commercial policy. Six lists of liberalized goods have been issued, which means that 75 per cent. of all imports may now be brought into Spain without licence from all O.E.C.D. and a number of other countries. These lists cover many categories of goods, including heavy capital equipment, chemicals, certain iron and steel products, electrical material and machinery, textile fibres, internal combustion engines, agricultural machinery and machinery for the food and drink industries, textile and printing machinery, a wide range of machine tools, scientific instruments, sports goods, medical equipment and musical instruments.

A system of global quotas has also been established, under which licences are issued to a fixed annual limit (which is frequently exceeded on a considerable scale) for the import of certain goods from almost any country of origin. There are 47 quotas for food products, chemicals, plastics, paper, textiles, iron and steel, machinery, vehicle components, etc. Only a very small percentage of imports is still subject to the bilateral trade agreements, which covered almost all Spanish imports in the past. Information about liberalized and globalized goods can be obtained from the Export Services Branch of the Board of Trade, Lacon House, Theobalds Road, London, W.C.1.

Consumer Goods

Since Spain is dependent for the greater part of her foreign exchange earnings on agricultural exports and tourism, both of which are affected by climatic conditions over which there is no control, the Spanish authorities have tended to liberalize or grant licences for imports of goods essential to the economy which are not being made in Spain. As regards non-essential articles, however, a heavy customs tariff shelters home industry from foreign competition and the market for consumer goods is thus limited.

Nonetheless there are opportunities for high quality luxury goods, and as the standard of living increases and imports continue to be freed, the market will gradually open for all types of goods.

The potentialities of the Canary Islands as a market should not be overlooked. Because of the Islands' large contribution to Spain's foreign currency earnings, a much more liberal licensing policy is in force there, and a wider range of less essential goods is being imported.

Anglo-Spanish Trade

The volume of Anglo-Spanish trade is increasing year by year. Britain is Spain's best customer; in 1961 total imports from Spain reached £69 million. Our exports to Spain totalled £39·5 million, 30 per cent. more than in the previous year, but there still remains a trade deficit of almost £30 million, and the increase of French and German exports to Spain was greater than ours.

Our exports in the bilateral sector were considerably over-licensed in 1960 and 1961. In the globalized and liberalized sectors where we are in direct competition with other suppliers our share of the market was less satisfactory. In the same measure as import restrictions are lifted, so will a sustained effort have to be made to consolidate our present hold on the market and to improve British performance to meet the increasing competition produced by the very lifting of these restrictions.

Manufacturing in Spain

When we cannot sell finished goods to Spain we should consider entering into manufacturing agreements with Spanish firms. The Spanish Government is anxious to encourage such arrangements and a large number of foreign firms have concluded licence and royalty agreements or have taken direct capital participation in Spanish enterprises. Our European and American competitors have been more active than we in this field and are well established in many sectors. British firms who have made such agreements have found them both satisfactory and profitable, and unless more British industrialists overcome their reluctance to manufacture in Spain, our share of the market in many industries is likely to shrink. Details of the regulations governing foreign investment in Spain are available at the Commercial Relations and Exports Department of the Board of Trade, Horse Guards Avenue, London, S.W.1.

How to approach the market

It should first and foremost be borne in mind that friendly relations and personal contacts are essential for doing business in Spain. Although it is important to appoint good agents, such an appointment by itself is not sufficient. The agent should be given the fullest support by his principals in the form of frequent personal visits to the market, and these visits should also be as frequent as possible when an exporting British firm deals direct with Spanish importers. Trade literature should be written in Spanish, prices quoted c.i.f. in pesetas as well as in sterling, and weights and measurements expressed in the metric system. Particular attention should be paid to fulfilling delivery dates and providing efficient after-sales service: the importance of good credit terms has already been pointed out. American and Continental exporters are fully aware of the above points and of the potential of the Spanish market; and it is up to British industry to cater for these particular requirements in order to overcome competition and meet the challenge.

Over 100,000 Visitors at Stockholm Fair in Ten Days

BRITAIN'S £2 MILLION Trade Fair at Stockholm, which has been characterized as 'a resounding success', closes on Sunday, June 3. For the second time since the opening on May 18 their Majesties the King and Queen of Sweden visited the exhibition on May 22 and stayed for more than an hour. H.R.H. Princess Alexandra of Kent visited the Fair on May 25 and saw the stands inside the exhibition and the open air exhibits, the car, tractor and caravan stands and the National Coal Board's model mine. Other visitors have included Sir Keith Joseph, Minister of State, Board of Trade, who welcomed some 60 Danish businessmen to the Fair on May 22 and reminded them that Britain was still a home of invention. Sir Keith's other engagements during his visit included attending two luncheons to celebrate the Export Council for Europe's Danish and Norwegian days, the British Iron and Steel Federation dinner and the Steel Company of Wales dinner. On May 28, Sir Richard Powell, Permanent Secretary, Board of Trade visited the fair and addressed the Swedish British Chamber of Commerce.

Orders continue to be taken by the various firms exhibiting at the Fair, but the full impact from the selling point of view will not really be felt until later this year. Although the giants of British industry are well represented, the smaller firms are also making their impact on the visitors to the Fair who come from Norway, Denmark, and Finland.

Several Swedish newspapers have given wide coverage to the Fair. Among these were Svenska Dagbladet and Dagens Nyheter. In an article printed in both Swedish and English under the heading 'A Magnificent Fair' Svenska Dagbladet said: 'The Stockholm Fair is a heartening sign that Britain is on the offensive in a manner that should benefit both countries'.

H.R.H. Princess Alexandra pauses to examine some of the equipment on the Joseph Lucas stand at the fair.

A comment in 'Dagens Nyheter' read: 'The Exhibition is unique from a Swedish point of view as well as from a British one. Nothing like it has been seen here before, and it is also the biggest Britain has ever arranged in a foreign country.'

Up to last Sunday there had been over 100,000 visitors at the Fair.

Russian Construction Experts to Visit Britain

THE MINISTRY OF WORKS announce that a party of about 18 Russian Ministers and senior officials concerned with the construction industries will visit Britain for ten days from June 28 to see various aspects of the techniques used in this country. Grishmanov, and the visit is being arranged under the terms of Article 3 of the Anglo-Soviet Cultural Agreement of January 9, 1961. This article provides for the exchange of specialists in the fields of industry, transport and construction.

The Ministry of Works is making arrangements for the Russian party to visit Scotland, Lancashire and Yorkshire and to inspect some of the major building projects and construction research establishments in and near London. On July 5, the Minister of Works, Lord John Hope, will give an official reception for the party at Lancaster House. The party is due to leave on July 7.

Birmingham Conference on Finance for Exports

THE FACILITIES AVAILABLE for financing exports were described at a one-day conference held recently by Birmingham Chamber of Commerce and attended by over 70 executives from Midland companies.

In his opening address, the President of the Chamber, Mr. J. J. Gracie, said that the Chamber had urged the Government to provide facilities for insuring overseas capital investments, but, apart from this one point, he believed they had in this country excellent facilities for financing and insuring exports and they had the backing of the best finance centre in the world. They must learn to use these facilities to the fullest extent.

The new long-term credit facilities, under which the banks and insurance companies will extend credit up to 10 years in certain cases, were referred to by Mr. E. G. Woolgar, General Manager (Overseas) Lloyds Bank Ltd. He said he did not think any projects had so far been arranged but he knew there were two or three in process of negotiation.

Other speakers dealt with factoring and the functions of accepting and confirming houses, and Mr. R. A. Dickinson described the work of the Export Credits Guarantee Department.

Imports of Cotton Textiles from Hong Kong, India and Pakistan

AS THE PRESENT UNDERTAKING by the Hong Kong industry expires at the end of the present year, the Governor of Hong Kong has discussed with the Hong Kong Cotton Advisory Board the future of the arrangements for the limitation of cotton textile exports to the United Kingdom.

In view of the near approach of the closing date (July 9, 1962) for the submission of applications for re-equipment grants under the Cotton Industry Act, 1959, decisions are urgently required on the future arrangements for imports from Hong Kong, as well as from India and Pakistan.

The United Kingdom Government has received from the Hong Kong Government an offer on the terms set out in the following press announcement by the Hong Kong Government:

> 'In the spirit of constructive co-operation, and in recognition both of the problems facing the United Kingdom cotton industry in its re-equipment programme and of the exceptional degree to which the United Kingdom has left its domestic market open to competition from imports, particularly preferential imports from the Commonwealth, the Hong Kong Cotton Advisory Board, on behalf of the Hong Kong cotton textile industry, has advised the Hong Kong Government that an undertaking should be offered to the United Kingdom to limit shipments of certain types of cotton textile manufactures and cotton yarn from Hong Kong to the United Kingdom for retention there.
> The offer covers a period of three years dating from January 1, 1963, and in respect of piece-goods and garments is on the same terms as the current undertaking, with an additional clause covering more fully the situation which might arise if United Kingdom imports from other countries increase.
> Although cotton yarn is not covered by the current undertaking, the Hong Kong Cotton Advisory Board has advised that yarn be included in this offer. The offer covers the same period of three years but the control will be introduced at an earlier date if India and Pakistan agree to restrict their exports from such earlier date. The level of yarn exports concerned would be proportionate to any figure which may be agreed by India and Pakistan, having regard to the 1961 exports of the three territories, but in respect of Hong Kong should not be less than a rate of 6·2 million lb. a year. The offer on yarn is also subject to the same terms and conditions as the current undertaking on cloth and garments, but includes an additional clause which, as an interim measure pending final settlement, provides for the holding of current exports at an agreed level, if India and Pakistan agree to a similar restriction.
> The whole offer in respect of yarn, cloth and garments is subject to similar restriction being agreed by India and Pakistan and to any proportionately more advantageous terms accorded to them being extended to Hong Kong. In the case of cloth and garments the proportions referred to are the current ones; in the case of yarn the 1961 ones.
> The offer has been communicated to the United Kingdom Government for their consideration. In the view of the Hong Kong Government it is a fair and reasonable offer having regard to the many difficulties that now face the two industries.'

This offer comes at a time when the Hong Kong industry has suffered losses in other markets and when the Colony is facing abnormal problems and the United Kingdom Government appreciate the sense of responsibility that has moved the industry to take this voluntary action in a situation of such difficulty. The United Kingdom Government recognize that the Hong Kong offer does not fully meet the desires of the British industry which has made strong representation that the ceiling for cloth should be reduced from the level to which it was increased for 1962. Nevertheless, in all the circumstances and in view of the importance of preserving adequate export outlets for Commonwealth countries and affording them the opportunity to earn the resources necessary for their economic development, the Government regard the offer as reasonable.

United Kingdom Government has informed the Governments of India and Pakistan of the offer made by the Hong Kong industry and has asked them if their industries will agree to give similar undertakings. They earnestly hope that the industries of India and Pakistan will be ready to co-operate.

The Cotton Board is being informed of those developments and of the action taken by the Government on it.

The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Frederick Erroll, will make a Government statement in Parliament before the Whitsun recess on the matters raised by the delegation from the cotton industry which met the Prime Minister on May 15.

These returns must also be accompanied by a statement on the licence holder's headed notepaper that he has been a regular importer of fresh apples over the past three years in the sense that he has both negotiated contracts with overseas suppliers and has paid overseas suppliers direct.

The Board wish it to be clearly understood that subject to the quota remaining at its present level no licence holder who has used his licences as to at least 80 per cent. in the period covered by the returns will receive a licence for less than 95 per cent. of his current licence entitlement.

Applications from non-licence holders will be considered only from those traders who have imported apples from Australia, New Zealand or South Africa during the past three years. Returns must be provided as at (b) in paragraph 3 above, duly certified, and they must be accompanied by a statement in the form requested.

Returns should be sent to reach the Board of Trade, Tariff and Import Policy Division, Horse Guards Avenue, London, S.W.1, as early as possible and in no case later than Friday, June 15, 1962. Applicants are reminded that any person who knowingly or recklessly makes any false statement or furnishes any document or information false in any material particular for the purpose of obtaining an import licence is liable to a fine not exceeding £500 and/or a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months. In addition, the import licence will be void from the date of issue and any goods imported under it will be liable to forfeiture under the Customs Acts.

Import and Export Prices in April

FOR THE FIFTH consecutive month the overall import and export indices and the terms of trade remained at the levels of 96, 113 and 85 respectively (1954 = 100).

An increase of half of one per cent. in the overall index for imports, not reflected in the rounded index, was mainly due to an increase of nearly 1½ per cent. in the index for the food, beverages and tobacco class of goods (2 points in the rounded index). There were also small increases in the basic materials and fuels indices but these are not reflected in the rounded figures.

There was no change in the overall export price index or in the index for manufactured goods. Within the manufactured goods class, however, there were slight increases in the indices of both engineering goods and in textiles but these were offset by falls in the metal index and in the index for other manufactures; apart from the fall of one point in other manufactures none of these movements are reflected in the rounded indices.

The method of calculating the import and export price indices was explained in the Board of Trade Journal of May 2, 1958.

Parliamentary Answers

Tuesday May 22

Asked about the final report of the Committee on Consumer Protection, Mr. Niall Macpherson, Parliamentary Secretary, said the report was submitted on April 25 and would be published as soon as possible, but he could not at present forecast the date of publication. The President would require a little time to reach conclusions on the findings of this report, which was a lengthy document dealing with very complex matters.

Wednesday May 23

United Kingdom Tariff Concessions to United States

The President was asked whether he would publish in the Official Report a table of the concessions made by the United Kingdom in the recent bilateral tariff agreements with the United States of America, together with a statement of the methods adopted for consultation with the industries affected and the factors which led to the selection of items for concession.

Mr. Frederick Erroll, President of the Board of Trade, said in reply that the list of tariff concessions to the United States was too long to publish in the Official Report: a copy was available in the library. Extensive consultations were held with trade associations and other bodies representing British industry before the negotiations started. The Government took full account of the views expressed when deciding, in relation to the concessions which the United States were offering, what concessions should be offered to them. Generally speaking, the concessions related to products of which the United States had been an important supplier.

Radio and T.V. Exports

A questioner asked what was the f.o.b. value of British exports of radio and television receiving sets and tubes to Canada for the years 1950, 1960, 1961 and 1962; and to what extent exports would be affected by the 15 per cent. tariff asked for by the Electronic Industries Association of Canada. In reply the President said he had already been in touch with the questioner who had agreed to accept figures for the year 1952 in place of those for 1950, which were not readily available The information was given below. As regards the second part of the Question, it was not possible to estimate the effect on our exports to Canada if a tariff of 15 per cent. were to be imposed.

U.K. Exports to Canada

(3) Television receiving sets and chasis substantially assembled	165,908	176	—	—

The President was asked further questions concerning tariff or quota restrictions on British exports of radio and television receiving sets and tubes exported to the Commonwealth and European Economic Community, what tariff or quota changes had taken place since 1952, and the f.o.b. value of such exports to the same territories together with the percentage of the total exports of these items. Details are given in Hansard of May 24, columns 69 to 74.

Pottery Exports to Russia

The President was asked whether, in view of the current trade negotiations with the Russian Government and the importance of the pottery industry to this country's export trade, he would press for the acceptance by the Russian authorities of an annual import quota of £25,000 to bring it into line with the present import quota for Russian pottery into this country. Replying the President said: 'The current visit to London of representatives of the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade is for the Annual Review of the Five Year Trade Agreement of 1959. The purpose of this review is to examine the general carrying out of the Agreement, and not to negotiate quotas for 1963, which will be the subject of separate discussions with the Soviet Trade Delegation in London later this year. I cannot accept that there should be equal quotas in each direction for particular classes of goods. The desire of the British pottery industry to export to Soviet Russia will, as always in the past, be kept in mind.'

Friday May 25

Imports from Japan

Asked if he would set out in tabular form the total imports from Japan at current prices during the years 1952, 56, 58, 60 and 61; and if he would give the same figures for pottery, cotton goods and synthetic fibres and for Japanese imports into the United States of America, the President said: 'I regret that information based on 1961 prices is not available. Details of the value of total United Kingdom imports from Japan in the years concerned are available from Account IV of the appropriate December issues of the Trade and Navigation Accounts. For details of imports of pottery, cotton goods and synthetic fibres I would refer the questioner to the reply given on February 5, about imports of manufactured goods from Japan. The values of Japanese imports into the United States of America are as set out in the following table.'

British Films Quota

A questioner asked if a decision had been made about the quota of British films to be shown by exhibitors during the year beginning January 7, 1963. Replying, the President said yes. After consulting the Cinematograph Films Council he had decided in accordance with their advice to leave the prescribed quotas at 30 per cent. for the first feature films and 25 per cent. for the supporting programme for the exhibitors' quota year beginning January 1, 1963. No Order to amend the Cinematograph Films (Quotas) Amendment Order, 1950, was therefore required.

Exports of Footwear

Asked what was the total production, by number and by value, of the boot and shoe industry in 1961, and what percentages, by number and value, of this production were exported, the President said that total production of footwear, other than rubber footwear, in 1961 amounted to 161·2 million pairs; figures were not collected of the value of footwear produced. There were 8·7 million pairs produced for export, accounting for 5·4 per cent. of production.

Translations of Treaty of Rome Regulations

The Lord Privy Seal was asked if he would make available official English Translations of the texts of regulations issued under the Treaty of Rome. In reply, Mr. J. B. Godber, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, said that unofficial translations of the agricultural regulations of the Community had been placed in the Vote Office. Translations of the eighteen other regulations published by the Community would be similarly made available as soon as they were ready.

We've been in Australasia since 1817. We were the first bank there; we still are. Today we have over 1,150 offices throughout Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, Papua and New Guinea all providing key services, many of which are special to the Bank of New South Wales.

We find customers take their hats off to our initiative and sense of judgment. We doff ours to them too, of course. There's mutual interest and respect between the 'Wales' and our customers.

British Textiles and Carpets Drive in Europe

THE BOARD OF TRADE are collaborating with the textile industry this month in the organization of British displays at three major European textile trade fairs in a drive to sell more British fabrics and carpets on the Continent.

Beginning on Monday, 15 British textile manufacturers are taking part in a combined display organized by the Board of Trade in collaboration with the Textile Promotion Consultative Committee at MITAM, the International Trade Exhibition for Clothing and Furnishing Fabrics, in Milan. There will be a similar combined display with 15 textile firms taking part, also organized by the Board of Trade and the T.P.C.C., at Interstoff, the International Textiles Exhibition, in Frankfurt, Germany, from June 19-22.

In France, the Board of Trade will be collaborating with both the T.P.C.C. and the Federation of British Carpet Manufacturers in separate displays of fabrics and carpets at the 4th Marché Textile International, a trade fair in Paris, from June 24-28. Twelve British carpet manufacturers and 16 textile manufacturers will be taking part in the two displays.

The Textile Promotion Consultative Committee comprises representatives of the major British textile industry associations, including the Federation of British Carpet Manufacturers. Both the T.P.C.C. and the Federation have collaborated with the Board of Trade in previous fabric and carpet displays overseas.

Britain's exports of fabrics and yarns to these three countries last year totalled: France, £3·2 million; Western Germany, £12·9 million; and Italy, £3·6 million. Exports of carpets to France totalled £263 thousand.

150 U.K. Firms Exhibit at Hanover Fair

By E. A. F. Seaman, Commercial Section, British Consulate-General, Hanover.

THE GERMAN INDUSTRIES Fair was opened by Professor Erhard, German Minister of Economics, on Sunday, April 29; Herr Strauss, Federal German Defence Minister had opened the bi-annual Hanover Air Show on the previous day. Both ministers referred to the growth in the fair and to the increased foreign participation. After praising the Hanover Fair Company for the excellence of the arrangements for the 5,650 exhibitors, and the quality and range of capital and consumer goods on display, Prof. Erhard appealed to German Industry to help maintain current prices in order that German products should continue to be competitive in export markets. He said the fair was of great importance as a meeting place for international trade, but for this it would be neither so successful nor so profitable. The site is only used for 10 days each year and yet it pays.

This year over a fifth of the exhibitors came from outside Germany, an increase of 12 per cent. in foreign participation compared with the 1961 event. Of the 1152 foreign exhibitors over 150 firms came from the United Kingdom, taking second place after the French who had 239 firms. Other principal foreign exhibitors were United States with 148, Austria 130, Holland 82, Sweden 77, Belgium 40, Denmark 39. There were also firms from Norway, Portugal, Japan and Hong Kong. Eastern European countries were very sparsely represented. Visitors from more than a hundred countries came to Hanover and many international trade discussions were held, with a 'Latin American Day' presided over by Prof. Erhard taking pride of place. A new International Centre has been built at the fair and 23 nations had commercial Information Officers in the attractive building. These offices were well patronized by businessmen and at the British office there was a daily average of over 180 visitors seeking market information, help with agency inquiries or other commercial assistance.

The Hanover Fair Company have extended the exhibition space which now covers 565,000 square metres. Two new halls, one for chemicals and plastics and the other for jewellery, silverware, watches, clocks and cutlery were built for this year's event, so that there is now 353,000 square metres of covered space and 212.000 square metres open air exhibitors' space. In addition to the International Centre, the administration and press houses are new. The fair is now so vast that it is an impossible task to visit all the stands during the ten days. Nevertheless, as exhibits and stands are arranged strictly according to branches of industry, it is easy for a businessman or specialist to locate the appropriate group of manufacturers' stands. It is in fact no exaggeration to say that Hanover no longer has one fair, but rather a series of simultaneous Exhibitions covering the principal branches of Industry for capital goods and a growing number of consumer goods. Moreover, the high cost of entrance (DM. 10) acts as a measure of disencouragement to the general public, so that the Fair is not overcrowded and the serious commercial visitor is able to transact his business in comfort. May 1, a public holiday and the last Sunday of the fair when cheaper tickets are available to apprentices, students and members of the German Armed Forces, are the main days for visits by members of the public. The highest single day's attendance this year was 150,000.

Mr. Marjoribanks, H.M. Minister (Economic) at the British Embassy in Bonn, and Mr. Welbore Ker, H.M. Consul-General in Hanover, visited many of the British stands at the main fair and at the Air show on the opening days. Sir Keith Joseph, Minister of State, Board of Trade, came to Hanover and visited sixty British firms' stands on May 4. The Minister also toured the Air Show before leaving for the British Week celebrations in Berlin. He was able to see the groups of British stands at the electronic centre, the woodwork machinery firms and the stand of the British Machine Tool Trades Association, the office machinery stands and the increased number of British porcelain and china firms' displays. He also included visits to the British domestic electrical equipment displays, some combustion engine firms, hydraulics, pumps, earth moving and builders equipment, welding equipment specialists, one firm in the gears and chain hall, two in the precision tool field, others in the hand tool trade, one in the vending machine hall, and one or two miscellaneous exhibitors as well as 23 British aircraft and aircraft accessory stands at the Air Show.

Mr. Peter Thorneycroft, Minister of Aviation, with Mr. D. W. G. L. Haviland, Permanent Under-Secretary, and other senior members of his Ministry, Mr. L. F. Nicholson, Director General of Scientific Research (Air), Mr. Colin MacFarlane, Supply Attache and Mr. John Roberts, Civil Air Attache at the Embassy in Bonn and H.M. Consul General spent a day at the Airshow on May 8. They were able to see the excellent exhibits displayed by our leading manufacturers which attracted much favourable comment.

It would be invidious to single out any British exhibit. On the whole British firms were pleased with the number of visitors to their stands, many of them serious inquiries, not only from the Federal Republic but from other countries. British firms in the gift ware section were disappointed by the lack of interest, and they and some of their foreign competitors doubt whether Hanover is suitable for these lines. The Fair authorities are endeavouring to broaden the scope of the German Industries Fair and claim that 30 per cent. of the exhibits are in the consumer field but it is recommended that these British firms should consider exhibiting at the Frankfurt International Fair where more skilled handicraft goods are shown.

The more successful British exhibitors, some of whom have been at the Fair for a number of years, have studied the German market and have taken the trouble to translate their literature into German, to quote in Deutschmarks and to give metric measurements. In many cases they have advertised in German trade journals or have taken advantage of the publicity service provided by the press section of the Hanover Fair company, as well as of the services provided by the British Information Services in Germany. Although it is too early to gauge the results of this years' fair, some British firms have obtained appreciable orders and many others are following up the promising contacts made at their stands. Certain British firms who have been established in the Federal Republic for a number of years and are achieving a fair slice of the market still consider it well worth while to show at the Hanover Fair. Both they and newcomers can generally count on meeting interested buyers, agents and other commercial visitors from all over the world. If more British firms wish to take part in next year's Hanover Fair, which will be held from April 28 to May 7, they should apply in good time to the Hanover Fair Company in Germany or to their agents in England, Schenker and Co. of London.

Czechoslovak Exhibition in London

THE FIRST Czechoslovak Exhibition to be held in London will be officially opened by Mr. Frantisek Krajcir, the Czechoslovak Minister of Foreign Trade, at the National Hall, Olympia, on July 16. Mr. Frederick Erroll, President of the Board of Trade, is expected to attend.

A wide range of consumer goods will be on display including those from Czechoslovakia's heavy and light engineering industries.

Technical experts and businessmen from the Czechoslovak State Trading Corporations will also be visiting the United Kingdom during the exhibition to meet their opposite numbers in British industry and commerce.

The fourth International Trade Fair will be held at Brno, Czechoslovakia, from September 9-23.

Sixteen foreign trade corporations will be represented at this fair, and will display more than 3,600 exhibits, of which 360 will be new developments of Czechoslovak manufacture.

Tariff, Customs, Import and Other Regulations in Overseas Countries

Registered Trade Mark (rtm) Goods in Overseas Tariff Lists

THE LISTS OF TARIFF, Customs and import regulation changes in overseas countries published in this section of the Journal sometimes contain words which are registered trade marks in the United Kingdom. So far as is practicable, all lists of goods are checked before publication from this point of view.

Items which fall into this category will now be prefixed by the letters 'r t m'. Readers of the Journal should note that this prefix signifies that the words are registered as trade marks in the United Kingdom, but that in the present context they are assumed to refer generally to products of the description stated in brackets.

While every attempt will be made to ensure that the scrutiny is complete, the lists may contain other words which are registered as trade marks in the United Kingdom or in other countries but which it has not been possible to identify.

	CHAPTER XVI MACHINERY AND APPARATUS: ELECTRIC APPLIANCES NOTES:
	(1) The basis of classification of machinery and accessories and parts thereof mentioned in this Chapter is their function, not the material used in their manufacture.
	(2) Complete machines also include machines in which some parts (such as flywheel, bed plates, bearings, pillow-blocks, etc.) are missing, provided that the various mechanical parts present together constitute the main bulk of the machine, although in an incomplete state. The import of machines in an unassembled state, even if forwarded in several consignments, shall not affect their classification.
	(3) Unless otherwise stated, separate unfinished parts of machinery fall under the tariff numbers of the sections covering the materials used in their manufacture, but in the case of finished separate parts, no consideration will be given to the materials used in their manufacture and they will fall under Chapter XVI. Finished separate parts, not specified under a particular tariff number, belong to the same item as of the machine for which they are intended, if this can be clearly established. Otherwise, such parts are classified under 'detached parts of machines not elsewhere specified or included.' Note: In order to distinguish between finished and unfinished parts manufactured of base metals please refer to No. 3 of the General Notes on Chapter XV. (See Board of Trade Journal of May 25, 1962, page 1172).
	(4) Motive machines of every kind driving working machines, when separable or presented separately, shall be classed apart from the item to which they belong; if necessary, the weight of the bed-plate common to both machines shall be divided in proportion to the respective weights of the motive machines and of the working machines. Motive machines coupled to working machines by means of one or more essential parts common to both shall not be considered as inseparable; the same applies to electric motors and others incorporated in working machines, in a position specially designed for that purpose. Subject to the exceptions expressly provided for, the two non-separable machines together shall be classed as the working machines.
	(5) Subject to exceptions provided for, machines of different kinds intended to function together shall be classed independently of one another when they are separable. If necessary, the weight of the common constituent parts of the separable machines shall be divided in proportion to the respective weights of the machines. If, on the contrary, they constitute a single body, they shall be classed as a working machine performing the chief function characterizing the whole.
	(6) Transmission and conveyor belts and straps of non-metallic material shall be classed independently of the machines to which they belong even when presented at the same time as the machine. Note: For the purpose of the foregoing notes, the designation machines applies also to the various appliances and apparatus in Chapter XVI.

CUBA

Ministry of Foreign Trade

A NOTICE published in the Board of Trade Journal on February 16, 1962 (page 375) reported the creation of twelve new Cuban Enterprises responsible for conducting the country's foreign trade. It was stated that one of these Enterprises, 'Intercomex', would be responsible for acting as an intermediary in compensation and bilateral ('barter') operations which may be carried out by the other eleven Enterprises.

H.M. Embassy in Havana now reports that, in addition to supervising such operations, 'Intercomex' is empowered to act as the agent of foreign firms requiring their services.

Further information on how 'Intercomex' can meet the requirements of individual British firms can be obtained direct from: Sr. Santiago I. Fernandez, Seccion de Representaciones, 'Intercomex', Apartado 7024, Calle 17, No. 1, Piso 10, Vedado, La Habana, Cuba.

NICARAGUA

Regulations About Prior Deposits on Imports

THE NICARAGUAN La Gaceta of May 11, 1962, contains the text of Decree No. 73 of the Ministry of Economy modifying the regulations about prior deposits on imports into Nicaragua.

Hitherto deposits of local currency to the value of imported goods included in Import List No. III (non-essential goods) had to be made 30 days in advance of obtaining the import licence. Licences can now be obtained for such goods immediately the deposit is made, as with imports classified in Import List No. II (less-essential goods). In addition, the deposit in respect of imports classified in Import List No. II has been reduced from 100 per cent. to 90 per cent. of the value of the goods.

THE FOLLOWING is a further list of items on which United States import duties are being reduced. The first instalment of this list appeared in the Board of Trade Journal of May 25 (pages 1189 to 1193). Column A shows the rate of duty becoming effective this year (probably on July 1) and Column B the rate which will come into force a year later. Where no rate is shown in Column B, there will be only a single reduction. Where two rates are shown in Column B, the reduction is to be made in three stages and the rate marked with an asterisk will not come into effect until two years after the initial reduction, i.e. in 1964.

Porcupines for Komati

BRISTLING with stub tubes—856 individually welded to the shell—this boiler drum is one of four initially ordered for the Komati (Transvaal) power station. Over 46 ft. long and weighing 71 tons, it was made in Ducol W.30, a low alloy steel requiring considerable 'know-how' in fabrication.

Harvey's ability to work such materials has brought A FURTHER ORDER from Mitchell Engineering Ltd. for two boiler drums of similar design, for Komati extensions.

Heavy fabrication is a major Harvey activity, and this department has recently been re-organised. With improved production planning plus the ability to secure raw material promptly, Harveys are now in a favourable position to undertake general fabrication work in plate up to 4½ in. thickness and up to 120 tons in one piece.
